The Royal Polynesian Wedding

As the sun begins to descend, the preparation for your Polynesian wedding begins. See you in your room at 4:45 pm, where our dancers will help you put on Tahitian traditional white pareo (or your own dress for the bride), then finish your outfit with traditional costumes. Once parked you will be escorted to our gardens overlooking the exotic Matavai Bay and Lafayette Beach.

The Master of Ceremonies will wait for you near the Tahitian altar to unite you (ceremony of 15 minutes) to the setting sun. During this celebration, Tahitian names will be given to you then you will be "wrapped" in the traditional "Tifaifai" colored. Once your wishes are exchanged, as the Polynesian tradition requires, you will be entertained by the Polynesian musicians (duration approximately 15 minutes).

Then you can sit comfortably to enjoy your tropical cocktails while our dance group will present you just for you a Polynesian show. Once the ceremony is over, the newlyweds will be free to enjoy the sunset and the wonderful evening breeze, take their photos with the photographer (optional) or retire to their room and relax on their terrace overlooking the bay .

Once back to your room, a flower bed and a fresh bottle of French Champagne will be waiting for you.

A candlelit dinner (3-course menu) will be served under the stars or in our restaurant (depending on weather conditions)
